

WOODWARD ARRESTED FOR ALLEGED VIOLENCE

For alleged violence at the Schofield barber shop on Twenty-fourth street, Roy Woodward, business agent for the local teamsters union, was arrested yesterday by the police. Five warrants were served on Woodward by Detective Robert Chambers and C. E. Noble.

In the complaints, C. W. Wygia charged assault; M. M. Schofield charged trespass and disturbing the peace; D. J. White charged battery and assault, and A. W. Walker swore to the complaint charging disturbing the peace in connection with the trouble created at the Badger Coal and Lumber company.

Woodward is alleged to have entered the Schofield shop and told the proprietor that he would have to make his shop a union concern. Some of the barbers protested and D. J. White, it is alleged, was dragged from the shop and placed on a truck by a crowd which is said to have been influenced by Woodward. Police interference checked further disturbance. It is stated.

Woodward was released after Henry C. Hall and Henry W. Beckett, Sr., had furnished personal bonds for his appearance. His bail was set at $100.

SOCIALISTS TO DRAFT NATIONAL PARTY PLATFORM

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Two hundred delegates representing the American Socialists will assemble here tomorrow in national convention to organize for the coming campaigns and draft a national party platform.

This latter undertaking promises to be especially difficult as since the last national convention of the party and during the war the "regular" organization has been torn by schism and internal dissension and inability to agree on party principles, while the entire membership in some states has been suspended and charters revoked. In the cases of Michigan and Massachusetts, however, it is said applications for reinstatement have been received, new charters issued, and the members are returning to the party fold, but in Ohio, where the charter also was revoked, the leaders now are reorganizing their forces and the charter has not been asked as yet.

In addition to the Ohio loss, seven foreign language federations of the party have broken with the old organization and these, it was said at the party headquarters here, still are out. The federations are the Russian, Ukrainian, Lithuanian, South Slavic, Hungarian, Lettish and Polish and are said to represent a membership of around 35,000 Socialists.

None of these revolts, however, will affect materially the membership of the convention, it is claimed, as the delegates are elected on a basis of the membership of local organizations and the defection of one would merely add to the representation from another. Latest discord is said to have grown out of a referendum election of a national committee, in which balloting the present party administration alleged frauds while the "left wing" and "communist" groups charge unfair counting. A special committee of 15 of which William J. Brandt of St. Louis is chairman, was appointed to report to the convention that opens tomorrow.

In connection with the drafting of a platform, the prospects are that one of the main controversies will revolve around the question of whether plans shall be included containing immediate demands for the improvement of working conditions or declaring for "social revolution" without specific and immediate Socialistic steps.

Another question will be whether American Socialists shall affiliate with the international Socialist movement, and, if so, what features the international movement should embrace. It is expected, according to Secretary Germer, that the executive committee will recommend to the convention the calling of an international Socialist conference for the purpose of organizing a "third international" which would exclude the majority Socialists of Germany and all kindred organizations because of their failure, as claimed by the American party, to stand by the principles of Socialistic internationalism during the war. It would admit to participation, according to Mr. Germer, the Independents and Spartacists of Germany.

The convention is to continue indefinitely until the questions to be disposed of have been handled. Tomorrow will be given over to organization work and the naming of committees, all of which are elected by the delegates instead of being appointed.

DR. PROSSER RESIGNS.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Dr. C. A. Prosser, director of the federal board for vocational, has resigned and plans to return to Dunwoody Institute, Minnesota. It was said today at the board's headquarters here. The office of the director probably will be abolished with the lay members of the board assuming active direction of the work.
